James Halliday - Tasting notes

"Dense purple-crimson; the exceptional colour does not deceive; this is a high quality wine speaking loud and clear of its variety and place; despite its very low yield of 1 tonne per acre, it is no more than medium-bodied, but the clarity of the black cherry and blackberry fruit, its fine-grained tannins, and integrated French oak (two years in barrel) are all seamlessly joined." 96 Points - James Halliday

Vineyard comments

Perfect rain and weather combined for the 2010 vintage to be one of the best vintages on record. Averaging 1 tonne per acre (Grange averages 1.8 tonnes), slow ripening allowed for perfect ripening throughout the season. No Pesticides, and only 3 purely organic sprays for mildew prevention for the whole season. 100% New French oak barrels for 2 years, 0% residual sugar, and below organic levels of sulphur (89 parts per million only).

It will age well to 2025.
